Enough is enough

By Ginny Quaglia

To the editor: “We the People” say enough is enough. This unsustainable federal agenda is ludicrous. The stimulus didn’t work; the hope and change isn’t what we were promised; the healthcare plan of the democrats isn’t “choice”; and the media is a criminal source of propaganda in a “free” society.

All this is a product of the greatest country God ever gave man? Where is the American independent spirit? Where is American exceptionalism—the ability for us to depend on God and ourselves? Why would anyone think the government is our savior? Who has the government ever really helped with its social programs? The inner cities are war zones, public schools are essentially babysitters and the welfare state has created only dependence on government, which equals votes for democrats.

All this “greatness” after billions of taxpayer dollars has been thrown at these issues.

Let us rise up and embrace the vision of our forefathers once again. Let us embrace our personal dependence on self and God. Call your lawmakers and appeal to liberty and personal responsibility. Tell them to get out of our way and let the private sector rise once again.

The government coffers will then swell to appropriate levels to function with a moderate government. The rest is just a power grab.

Our system isn’t perfect, but it’s the best system ever created on this planet. Don’t let this current agenda ruin the best country God ever bestowed on man. America is better than this.
